

Nominate Christine Shawcroft ...

... for the Labour Party NEC

I have represented members on the NEC for 13 years. I opposed the stitch-ups of Ken Livingstone and Rhodri Morgan, spoke up against the invasions of Afghanistan and Iraq, warned about the 'targets' culture imposed on public services (shortly before Estelle Morris had to resign), opposed ruinous PFI schemes (which even the Tories admit were financial disasters) and campaigned against the overturning of democratically selected candidates all over the country. My reward for having been right about all these issues was to be treated like a pariah on the NEC. Luckily, I'm not easily intimidated. I am a strong, independent voice on the NEC, doing my best to raise the concerns of rank and file members. I can't be cajoled into going along with dodgy decisions and I try to hold the leadership to account. I will carry on fighting for greater democracy in the Party, and a policy making process which reflects our ideals.
